Washington, D. C., June 16, 1909.

Thus far, despite depressing humidity from a week of rain, the senate shows very little inclination to predict the day of adjournment. There was a ray of hope last week, but now the senators, who sigh for a higher altitude and for cooler enor a higher attitude and for cooler en-vironments, simply scowl and look de-pressed whenever the subject of adjourn-ment is brought up. Today a New Eng-land senator said he had fixed upon Sep-tember 1st as the day of adjournment, "but," he facetiously added, "we may get away a little before that date."

The President has called both Senator. away a little before that date.

The President has called both Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon to the White House this week to explain to them his leaning to a tax on corporations. The treasury department reckons that a 2 per cent tax on the net earnings of all corporations of an inter-state character, would bring in fifty or sixty millions, but the question is, will this sum be necessary to meet the needs of the government in addition to customs and internal revenue

The finance committee does not look The finance committee does not look with favor upon a corporation tax, but the President does, and rather than run the risk of the income tax bill going through the Senate, Senator Aldrich is inclined to accept the president's views. An amendment to the tariff bill has been introduced providing for the submission to the several states of the question of amending the constitution of the United States so as to give Congress the right to levy a tax on income. The regular income tax a tax on income. The regular income tax measure comes up for debate Friday, when measure comes up for debate Friday, when the Senate may record a close vote on this measure, but, probably it will fail of adoption. A squabble is expected on the hide, coal, lumber and iron schedules, but just how long it will last is a question. Whether Congress adjourns before or after, the President purposes to attend the Champlain celebration July 7th, but the war balloons, which the department hoped to send to Burlington, may not appear, they having been sent to the Middle West for experimental purposes and where it may having been sent to the Middle West for experimental purposes and where it may be found impossible to spare them. An avalanche of women is said to be on the way from Chicago to Washington to protest against the proposed glove and hostery tariff. They are representatives of the federations of woman's clubs of half a dozen or more states. They are to see the President and then seek to impress the members of the finance committee.

The agricultural department is stirred to quick action by the exposure of Inspector Harms, of conditions in the East St. Louis meat packing establishments, and five officials have been sent there today to investigate. Coming on the heels of the Chicago beef scandals, the department is bound to tigate. Coming on the heels of the Chicago beef scandals, the department is bound to get at the actual conditions. The average housewife would be glad to get at the reason for the kiting of the prices of beef, with an additional tax on the dinner table. The treasury department is trying to find out about the disappearance from the redemption bureau yesterday of $600 in brand new bills of various denominations. Punils of Brattlebora schools will recall the upils of Brattleboro schools will recall the process of counting money in the treasury building and no doubt will wonder with the secret service and district police, how in the world these notes could be lost. The department officials believe, or pro-The department officials believe, or pro-fess to at least, that it is an error in count-ing. The paper used for printing bills is counted first in the counting room and again when given to the press feeders and still again after leaving the presses. An-other count is taken by an official in still another department of the bureau, and fi-table by the board of the department.

The forestry department is engaged in splendid work in various sections of the country, not only in preserving the forests, but in educating the farmers in their efforts to reforest and preserve their woodlands in a way to materially enhance their value. In this connection it is proposed to send to several central points an expert forester who will assist the farmer in the work of culling out undesirable timber, trees and shrubs, in order to promote the growth and worth of wooded tracts. The experiments of the department have brought most satisfactory results and proved the wisdom of intelligent and systematic cutting. Fitts and J. L. Martin, An adjournment was taken to the office of Mr. Fitts, and the reorganization of the company was the next course of business. William H. Proctor was elected president, Henry R. the reorganization of the company was the next course of business. William H. Proctor was elected president, Henry R. Brown and John H. Knowlton, vice-presidents, W. C. Mitchell, clerk and treasurer. Immediate possession was taken of the plant by the reorganizers and with but one or two exceptions the old force remains with the new managers. Some changes were made in the personnel of the office force, as a somewhat different system will be inaugurated by Mr. Proctor and his associates. Mr. Mitchell will occupy a position on the executive staff of the new company, and Mr. Proctor will be the guiding hand of the establishment. Mr. Brown, who has a livery business on his hands, will not devote his entire time to the manufacture of overalls until he to the manufacture of overalls until he shall dispose of his business, or make ar-rangements for carrying on the same. The reorganized company state that hey have a heavy run of orders, and that they have no inclination or intention to locate a branch in Schenectady as they have all that they can attend to here in Brattleboro. Mr. Proctor stated yester-

have all that they can attend to here in Brattleboro. Mr. Proctor stated yesterday that the company was advertising for help and could use a much larger force than they have on duty.

The entire purchase price for the 900 shares of outstanding stock was paid Monday at the meeting in the People's National bank, and while the parties concerned will not state the price paid, it is known to have been far above the par value of the stock.

The same selling force of the company will be retained and no changes are contemplated in the operating force at the factory by Mr. Proctor. One or two employes of the shipping department have left since the new stockholders assumed command.

RACE SCHEDULE ARRANGED.

Boat Club's Regatta, July 5, Will Provide Interesting Program of Events. The regatta committe of the Brattleboro The regatta committe of the Brattleboro Boat club at a meeting held Thursday evening arranged a schedule of races for July 5, the day we celebrate. The races will finish on the river at the Connecticut river bridge that all of the citizens may have an opportunity to witness the several events. The motor boat event will be a handicap race starting at the bridge and rounding a buoy at the suspension bridge, returning to the starting point. Handicaps will be based on trial runs soon to be made. There will be a sufficient number of entries in this event to make an interesting race.

teresting race. For the speedy boats a scratch race has been arranged starting at the bridge and proceeding up the river, around Dum-merston island and returning to the starting point. Probably the canoe races will be of full as much interest to all as any of the events, for the committee in charge of the day's celebration have endeavored to have several events in the canoe class that will stimulate local interest. A short course for cance races will be laid out straightaway from the head of the island to the bridge for one paddler events and for races permitting of two paddlers in a canoe. aA mixed race for canoeists in which a man and a woman in a canoe will constitute one of the units of the contest will interest those that gather to witness the various events. A short course will be arranged for this last named race that there may be a goodsized string of en-

The go as you please race for veteran canoeists starting from the bridge, cir-cling the island, and finishing at the starting point, from the point of interest will be the drawing card of the day. Any canoe may carry as many paddlers or pas-sengers as desired and if a ton of ice would make things more congenial for the occupant or occupants of any craft in this race there will be no objection interposed by the regatta committee. Some of the old-timers may be expected to figure in this event.

Suitable trophies will be awarded first place winners. The races will be open to club members only. At the close of the racing program the various craft will be headed upstream and club members and invited friends will picnic at some point on the river for the remainder of the day.

Tony Savoy Captured. Tony Savoy was arrested by Officer Pendergast in Holyoke last evening, charged with the larceny of $37 from John Seneskie of Wilmington. It is alleged that Savoy and Seneskie worked at the recently burned Mountain mills at Wilmington, and that yesterday morning Savoy robbed Seneskie of the $37 and started for Holyoke. The avenger was on his trail, however, and Seneskie arrived in Holyoke at the same time as Savoy and entered complaint against him. An officer from Wilmington goes to Holyoke this morning to bring Savoy back to Vermont. He is not expected to demand the formality of Treasurer and secretary, Lowe and Thomas, have sent out a circular as follows: At the annual meeting of the Vermont Fish and Game league, Nov. 18, 1908, the subject of holding all meetings in summer instead of alternate meetings in the fall, was briefly discussed. Active members of the league have learned from experience that the mid-summer meeting experience that the mid-summer meeting is the only one which can be held without causing a deficit. The secretary and treasurer of the league were appointed to get an expression of their views of the league members. They ask members to kindly express their views relative to the matter.
